Quarterly Report

Prepared by the finance team for the board review.

Revenue grew by 12 percent against the previous quarter. The growth came from renewals in the mid-market segment and from two new enterprise contracts signed in February.

Costs stayed flat, so operating margin improved by three points. The largest single line remains infrastructure, which the platform team expects to hold at its current level until the next migration.

The outlook for the next quarter is unchanged. Hiring is limited to the two roles already approved, and travel is restricted to customer sites.

Quarterly Report

Appendix A: revenue by segment

Revenue grew by 12 percent against the previous quarter. The growth came from renewals in the mid-market segment and from two new enterprise contracts signed in February.

Costs stayed flat, so operating margin improved by three points. The largest single line remains infrastructure, which the platform team expects to hold at its current level until the next migration.

The outlook for the next quarter is unchanged. Hiring is limited to the two roles already approved, and travel is restricted to customer sites.

Quarterly Report

Appendix B: cost breakdown

contracts signed in February.

Costs stayed flat, so operating margin improved by three points. The largest single line remains infrastructure, which the platform team expects to hold at its current level until the next migration.

The outlook for the next quarter is unchanged. Hiring is limited to the two roles already approved, and travel is restricted to customer sites.